

Leaving a Legacy

God has given us everything, and how we use these resources is an important sign to the world of our faith and love for the Lord.

This is true at the end of our life too – how we seek to pass on the assets which we have accrued can be a visible sign of our Christian faith.

Making a will

A Will, the document that sets out in legal terms what we want to happen to our assets after our death, is important not only to our family and dependents, but can also be an important act of stewardship. Everyone should consider making a will.

If you judge you need to make a new will, or update your current one, then please consider Will Aid. Under this scheme, in November each year, a local solicitor offers to write your will without charging their normal fee. Instead you are invited to make a voluntary donation to Will Aid. The suggested donation is £95 for a basic single will or £150 for a pair of basic mirror wills. The donations go to nine great charities. www.willaid.org.uk has more information.

Leaving a legacy to the church

A gift left to the church in your will can provide an important boost to church resources, and may be used either for particular items or work that you specify, or for the general work of the church as a whole. This is a great way to ensure that your resources are put to God's work.

If you would like to make St Michaels a beneficiary under your will please speak in complete confidence to David Percival, our Stewardship Officer, (via the Church office) who will be pleased to provide the necessary information.
